Introduction - Nexia tax seminar series in July '26 / Aug '26

Today

New Negative gearing – Australian tax rules:
from 1 July 2027

Next time

- 50% CGT discount removal and CGT indexation – from 1 July 2027 CGT events
- 30% minimum tax

[from late July '26 and in two parts]

- 30% minimum tax on discretionary trusts – from August '26 or after legislation is tabled in Parliament

Introduction – Federal Budget tax changes – overview

What date is the next Federal Election?

Say 31 May 2028[^], last Federal Election was 3 May 2025

[^]2028 Federal Election Assumption – While speculation, for the purposes of this seminar, and given the proposed operation date of the above rules from 1 July 2027, we have assumed the Australian Labour Party will win the next Australian Federal Election on or before May 2028 and there will be no changes to these tax rules from say 1 July 2028. Given this 2028 Federal Election Assumption and the presence of some uncertainty, we advise the contents of this seminar is not a substitute for obtaining tax advice based on your personal circumstances.

Tax reform – Negative gearing

Negative gearing – What is Negative gearing?

“Gearing” simply means borrowing money to invest. A property is negatively geared when the costs of holding it — loan interest, rates, insurance, management and repairs — are greater than the rent it earns.

Australia is unusual: that rental loss isn’t locked to the property. It can be deducted from your other income — including your salary — lowering the tax you pay.

→ reduces your taxable income

Negative gearing – How it works — in three steps

Borrow and buy

Take out a loan to purchase an income-producing investment property.

Rent it out

The property earns rent, but holding costs run higher than that income.

Deduct the loss

Claim the net loss on your tax return, cutting tax on your salary and other income.

What you can deduct

Loan interest

Council rates

Insurance

Management fees

Repairs

Depreciation

Loan interest is deductible — principal repayments are not.

Negative gearing – A $500,000 rental, year one

Rental income ($400/wk)	+$20,800
Loan interest	($24,800)
Council & water rates	($3,200)
Insurance	($1,800)
Property management	($1,456)
Repairs & maintenance	($1,000)
Depreciation (non-cash)	($6,000)
Net rental loss	($17,456)

$6,800

Tax saving at a 39%
marginal rate

$6,000

Is non-cash depreciation

≈ $4,650

Real out-of-pocket cash
cost / year

Capital growth

The pay-off the strategy relies on

Tax softens the blow — but you are still genuinely out of pocket each year.

Negative gearing – Who Benefits Most

The benefit scales with your tax rate

Same loss, bigger refund

A top-bracket investor saves $4,700 on every $10,000 of loss. Nearly 3× the savings of someone on the lowest rate.

It's why critics say the concession is skewed toward higher earners.

Negative gearing – Who’s actually doing it?

Negative gearing – What does it mean

- Not defined
- Costs associated with income producing investment (such as a residential dwelling) exceed the income derived by a taxpayer
- If a loss arises
- Tax loss can be used to offset income (salary / business / investment income) derived from another source
- Maybe (?) refund of previous income tax paid to the Australian Taxation Office

Tax reform – Negative gearing

- Introduced 12 May 2026 – 2026 Federal Budget
- 10 rules
- No changes to Negative gearing rules – 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027
- Quarantined – tax losses from “residential dwellings” for the period from 1 July 2027
- Not quarantined – losses from “new residential dwellings” for the period from 1 July 2027

Tax reform – Negative gearing – Purpose?

- Encourage housing supply
- Strong incentive for property investors to take on highly leveraged housing investments
- Taxpayers who have negatively geared properties – say 1.1 million individuals in 2022/23
- With CGT reforms, estimated to increase Cth Govt revenues – A$3.6 billion

Negative gearing– Status of new tax law

The Treasury Laws Amendment \(Tax reform No. 1\) Bill 2026 \(Bill\)* is progressing through the Commonwealth Parliament, with Royal Assent expected sometime from 11 August 2026.

Rule 2 – Residential dwelling – tax loss not deductible in the period 1 July '26 to 30 June '27

“Henrietta acquires an established residential dwelling in July 2028.

For the 2028-29 income year Henrietta has assessable income of $50,000 from renting out the residential dwelling as residential accommodation.

For that year, Henrietta has $65,000 in deductions for the residential dwelling, including interest, insurance and strata costs. She can only deduct $50,000, and the remaining $15,000 is carried forward to the next income year.

For the 2029-30 income year, Henrietta has $70,000 in deductions and $52,000 of assessable income from renting out the residential dwelling as residential accommodation.

Henrietta can deduct $52,000, and $33,000 is carried forward to the next income year (comprising the $15,000 carried forward from the 2028-29 income year and $18,000 from the 2029-30 income year).

For the 2030-31 income year, Henrietta has $20,000 in deductions and $72,000 of assessable income from renting out the residential dwelling as residential accommodation, having reduced her mortgage following an inheritance.

She has net rental income from the residential dwelling of $52,000 for this income year and can fully offset the amount of $33,000 that has been carried forward from the previous income year.”

Rule 2 - Negative gearing – meaning of “Residential Dwelling”

- A ‘residential dwelling’ is a dwelling which is defined as
- A unit of accommodation that:
 - is a building or is contained in a building; and
 - consists wholly or mainly of residential accommodation.

Eg – most detached, semi-detached houses, units, apartments and townhouse

(section 26-160 of ITAA 1997 as further defined in section 118-115)

Negative gearing – meaning of “Residential Dwelling”

- A ‘residential dwelling’ also includes, where available for use by the occupant:
 - land adjacent to the dwelling; and
 - a garage, storeroom or other associated structure.

Negative gearing – what is not a “Residential Dwelling”

- A ‘residential dwelling’ is not:
 - a Caravan, mobile tiny home or similar mobile structure;
 - a Hotel, motel, inn, hostel, or boarding house;
 - a Student accommodation connected to an educational institution;
 - a Boat or other marine vessels; or
 - ~~Any other class of dwelling excluded by legislative instrument.~~

s160(1) – As amended in Senate – now a close category definition – removal of s160(1)(e) ministerial legislative instrument – was removed from Bill in Senate.

Rule 4A - main residence owned on or before 12 May 2026

Rule 4A – Main residence owned on 12 May 2026 and subsequently rented, tax losses is deductible (s260-155)

“Example 2.4 Ownership interest in an established dwelling pre-12 May 2026

Maya acquired an ownership interest in a residential dwelling prior to 7.30pm (AEST) on 12 May 2026 (Dwelling A).

This dwelling is her main residence and is subject to a home loan for which she pays interest and makes principal repayments.

On 25 August 2029, Maya moves to another city and seeks to rent the apartment. On 1 September 2029, Maya advertises Dwelling A for rent and rents Dwelling A to a tenant.

For the 2029-30 income year, Maya is able to claim deductions, such as interest paid on the loan for Dwelling A, against her assessable income, including her salary and wages, for the period 1 September 2029 to 30 June 2030.”

Exemption rule B - Rule 9 – Tax Losses from “New Residential Dwelling” are deductible

- Definition of “new residential dwelling” - per Ministerial legislative instrument
- 18 June 2026 – proposed new legislation after July 2026
- At date of seminar – precise definition is unclear

Exemption rule B - Rule 9 – Tax Losses from “New Residential Dwelling” are deductible

As part of the 12 May 2026 Federal Budget, the Government provided further guidance in its factsheet, noting that:

- residential properties which genuinely add to supply (see Table 2). This will include:
- dwellings constructed on vacant land, or
- where existing properties are demolished and replaced with a greater number of dwellings.
- Knock-down rebuilds or substantial renovations that do not increase supply will not be eligible.
- A new build cannot have been previously sold, unless first owned by the builder and not occupied for more than 12 months.
- Subsequent purchasers of the dwelling will not be able to access the 50 per cent CGT discount or Negative gearing in relation to that dwelling. This is similar to how stamp duty exemptions apply to new builds under some state-based arrangements.

Negative gearing – 2026 Budget term “New Builds”

Table 2: New builds comparison table

The changes target the benefit of negative gearing to newly constructed properties that genuinely add to housing supply.

Eligible new build	Not an eligible new build
A newly constructed apartment bought off-the-plan.	An established property that has recently been extended to add additional bedrooms.
A duplex constructed through a knock-down rebuild replacing a single, free-standing house.	A free-standing house constructed through a knock-down rebuild replacing an older, smaller free-standing house.
Any residential construction on previously vacant land.	A granny flat built adjacent to an established property that is not eligible for negative gearing.
A newly built property which is occupied for less than 12 months before being first sold.	A newly built property which is occupied for more than 12 months before being sold to a subsequent investor.

“New builds” in 2026 Federal Budget papers, revised term in Bill is “New residential dwelling”

Trust – rule 11 – look through – integrity rule

Rule 11 – Trust look through rule for discretionary trust and unit trusts – trust income distribution to beneficiaries retains rental income character and hence beneficiary cant use any losses from interest related borrowing – ie the trust income retains the rental income characterization (section 26-155(7) of ITAA 1997)

What do I do now?

Review your current or planned property or residential dwelling investments and

1. Reviewing your existing residential dwelling portfolio, including the timing of acquisitions.
2. Reviewing the new definition of “residential dwelling” and general concept of residential property, noting commercial properties and industrial properties are excluded from the above rules.
3. Considering how the proposed loss restrictions may impact your after-tax position and cash flow.
4. Assessing whether future investment strategies (including new vs established properties) remain appropriate.
5. Seeking tailored advice before making any investment or restructuring decisions.
